

Low Power FM would displace important national radio stations such as K-Love and Airl that provide valid and important services to listeners across the country. As these stations are listener supported, listeners repeatedly express their desire for these radio stations to continue in their area; allowing LPFM stations to take precedence over these stations would rob these listeners of their opportunity to contribute to their community in this very important way. Specifically, K-Love and Airl are vital to communities across the nation by providing hope, counseling, and an expression of worship.
